

A Great Fall in Vegetables.

This morning, while going down Exposition street, Joe Turner's horse became frightened and ran away, throwing his brother-in-law and spraining his ankle and scattering melons and vegetables all over the street.

"Well, husband," said the good wife who had strained the exchequer in a vigorous social campaign, "we must decide at once whether we are able to give the young people a grand wedding breakfast or whether we shall oppose the match and make them run away."—Galveston News.

A good story is told of two old ladies who were talking about the church. One said, "What is the difference between all these denominations, anyway?" "Why," replied the other, "the Methodists, they go down in the gutter and pulls them up; the Baptists, they washes them; and the Congregationalists, they starches them."

G. V. Toms, of Savannah, Ga., general agent of the Georgia State Building and Loan association, is in the city looking after the interests of his association. He represents one of the strongest building and loan institutions in the south. Our Isaac Stevens is the efficient secretary of the Ocala Board of this splendid association, and does a safe business.

The famous plant system will run a grand excursion to Picnic Island, Port Tampa, June 30. Leave Ocala at 7 o'clock in the morning. Fare for adults $1, and 50c. for children. Let everybody go and have a good time. Traveling Passenger Agent H. G. Haycraft has just billed the town with the most artistic lithographic pictures of this excursion we have ever seen.

John Martin had quite an accident yesterday while he was out in Marti City collecting. He was inside of a house, and as usual left the pony standing at the gate. It began to rain, which started the horse off. Mr. Martin ran out, but did not succeed in catching hold of the lines. The pony ran at a breakneck speed, and in making several short turns broke three wheels entirely out of the hubs. The pony was finally caught, without doing any damage to the animal or harness.

This office was presented with some samples of cigars by W. E. Thomas that were as fine as any we have ever smoked. They were made entirely of Florida tobacco, grown by Adam Eichelberger on his place near this city. The cigars were as fine flavored as the genuine Havana grown leaf. We see no reason why, with the proper attention and cultivation, we can not grow just as good tobacco in Marion county as our Cuban neighbors. We have the factories and will soon have others. Now let us turn our attention to the soil and grow the larger portion of our tobacco right here.
